Who is this MBA for?

For those experienced, practising managers looking for a world class, general management MBA with particular application to corporate finance. Members may come from a variety of backgrounds, for example finance managers in organisations, general managers from financial services or a range of functions in banking operations.

This programme is aimed at aspiring managers who wish to enhance their development in both management competency as well as personal development as an individual alongside their full-time employment. The programme will therefore prepare you for a senior management role. The programme consists of a series of organisation-based projects that enable you to apply your learning back into your business.

The Executive MBA programme emulates the work of a senior manager working within a team - your fellow participants - mature and experienced managers. Our leading faculty head up high performance learning groups, working on typically realistic issues facing today's organisations. Executive MBA learning is experientially based, real world applicable and discussed, debated and tested in class. Our Executive MBA means you'll come away with experience that you can practically apply back in the business world.

You'll be part of a team. The Executive MBA year's intake is split into small teams to form learning groups and delivers practical assignments, projects and study work.

The members forming each Executive MBA team are carefully selected and balanced. We coach you on teamwork management processes, influencing skills, project management, facilitation and conflict resolution. On top of the Executive MBA programme content, these are transferable skills that will become invaluable at work.

The Executive MBA also places emphasis on your development as an individual. We help you to lever your strengths, develop new management skills and prepare for the challenges of senior leadership. On an Executive MBA programme individual excellence and collaborative learning are encouraged through group and individual assessment, mentoring, business coaching and career planning.

Programme schedule

Participants come to Henley on a monthly basis, typically for 3 or 4 days. We encourage you to take the residential option and stay on site in order to fully immerse yourself with other colleagues.

You will work alongside the general Executive MBA programme members for the majority of the syllabus, whilst periodically studying tailored modules bespoke to your theme. These modules are Principles of Corporate Finance, Risk Management, Derivatives and Trading and Financing Growth.
